Market intelligence for law firms of the future

Legal Futures is the leading resource tracking the fast-evolving legal landscape. Written by professional journalists, it provides cutting-edge news coverage on alternative business structures, new market entrants, regulatory change and innovation in all its forms.

Its unique blend of hard-hitting journalism, market intelligence and expert analysis makes it the first port of call for anyone interested in keeping pace with the transformation of the legal market.

Legal Futures is read by a large audience of lawyers – from the high street to the City – as well as others with a stake in the market, such as accountants, consultants, insurers and those planning to become ABSs.

Regular content:

- New ABSs and market entrants
- Pioneering law firms
- Regulatory change
- Impact of civil justice reforms – referral fee ban
- Compliance – COLPs and COFAs
- Archive of 2,000 stories since 2010

Credibility

Legal Futures is written by professional journalists and edited by Neil Rose, an award-winning legal journalist, and a recognised expert and commentator on the Legal Services Act reforms, along with blogs and feature articles from other experts in the field.

As a truly independent news site, Legal Futures is able to provide proper scrutiny of the regulators and representative bodies in the law, and ask the tough questions, whilst delivering fair and objective reporting.

Widely respected and well read by industry experts – with even the chair of the Legal Services Board posting comments – Legal Futures has become the go-to source of information on the new legal market.

Legal Futures conferences typically attract around 150 – 170 delegates from a broad range of stakeholders in the legal services market, ranging from high-street to City law firms, new legal businesses, service providers to the industry and those planning on becoming ABSs. Delegate lists from previous events are available on request.

The exhibitor package:

- One 3m x 2m exhibitor stall in the atrium
- A full delegate pass to attend all presentations
- An exhibitor pass, including lunch and refreshments
- A half page advertisement in the conference programme
- A two minute presentation to delegates during the conference

Standard Cost: £1,200 + VAT Premium Associates Cost: £960 + VAT

Quotes from delegates:

- “A fantastic conference – don’t think I have left a conference with more new ideas buzzing around my head”
- “Superb representation of the sector as it looks forward to fantastic opportunities”
- “The best legal conference of the year. A great insight into an interesting and changing market”
- “Excellent programme and speakers. Refreshing to hear so much great stuff from people outside the sector.”
